MITO turns 4!

Don't miss MITO SettembreMusica 2010, the fourth annual event of its kind. Europe's biggest musical stage awaits you as concert halls, churches, piazzas, courtyards, museums, parks and universities in the cities of Milano and Torino play host to classical, jazz, pop and rock performances, plus film screenings, presentations, round table discussions and shows for children and young people.

2010. Listen to the overtures!

The music begins on September 3 in Milano with the Leipzig Gewandhaus Orchestra conducted by Riccardo Chailly.

Torino's opening concert on September 4 features the Orchestre de Paris conducted by Lorin Maazel.

MITO SettembreMusica 2010 also celebrates the 200th anniversaries of the births of Schumann and Chopin with young pianists and classical music stars such as Salvatore Accardo, Riccardo Chailly, Maurizio Pollini.

Awaiting Istanbul.

This year's spotlight on Turkey promises to be a festival within the festival, spanning the many sounds of Istanbul and the most seductive scenes from the Bosphorus. Delight to choirs of muezzin and orthodox monks, voices and instruments of the high plains, music from the Ottoman era, janissaries and much more.

Great music is back... and filling up grand venues!

It's become a classic, the must-see concert for everyone – from music buffs to the merely curious, young and old alike.

The La Scala Philharmonic Orchestra and pianist Lang Lang welcome 18,000 to Milano's Palasharp stadium and Torino's Palaolimpico Isozaki, taking the classical spirit to a whole new dimension.

A sacrosanct... success!

Lovers of sacred music are once again treated to performances in the great basilicas of San Marco and Sant'Ambrogio in Milano, featuring compositions by Bach and Josquin Des Près. And there's more: cloisters, altars, naves and courtyards all sparkle with the sounds of jaw-dropping performances to be enjoyed in religious silence.

A musical journey...

MITO SettembreMusica is a new way to explore the sounds and sights of the city. Milano and Torino, along with other cities in the two regions, are united by the same great passion.

You'll experience the urban settings with new eyes and – above all – new ears, in three weeks brimming with pure music performed in an array of extraordinary locations.
